CONCEPT NOTE

Background and Objectives

1. Asia Development Alliance (ADA) is a joint initiative of national and sub-national platforms of civil society organizations (NPs) in Asia engaged in international development issues in order to promote more effective international cooperation and solidarity among CSOs in partnership with campaign umbrella networks such as GCAP and like-minded international development CSOs or networks and relevant UN bodies in the context of Post 2015/MDGs development agenda setting process.
2. The proposed theme of the ADA 2013 is to “Asian Voice for the World We Want 2015” which emphasizes the importance of solidarity among NPs in Asia in building collectively global vision and strategies in terms of engaging in global processes such as Post 2015/MDGs and other related processes. The theme also implies the strategic partnership with existing campaigns on poverty eradication and inequality such as the Global Call to Action against Poverty (GCAP), Social Watch, LDCs Watch, etc.
3. The ADA 2013 will take place in Bangkok, Thailand for 3 days from 31 January to 2 February starting in the Thursday afternoon of 31 Jan. 2012 and closing in the Saturday afternoon of 2 Feb. 2013. The venue for the meeting on 1 Feb (Friday) will be the UNESCAP Building (1 Feb) and the rest will be at Hotel De’ Moc www.hoteldemoc.com near the UNESCAP building.
4. The idea of ADA was conceived and developed further at a series of informal consultations during the meetings where some representative of national platforms met including the Regional Consultation on Human Rights and Development (Bangkok, Aug. 2011), Seoul Civil Society Forum (Sept. 2011, Feb and Sept. 2012) and CIVICUS General Assembly in Montreal (Sept. 2011 and 2012).

CONCEPT NOTE

5. The ADA as a regional network of mainly NPs can be understood as a response to the common challenges facing national platforms in terms of their advocacy capacity building to participate effectively in the proliferated global agendas and processes (Post 2015, Post Istanbul, Post Busan HLF-4, Post Rio+20, G20 Development Agenda, etc.) as well as their domestic implementation. There has been a gap in information-sharing and agenda-setting between international and national levels as well as international norms and domestic reality on the ground. One of the main reasons identified was the lack of effective participation and capacity on the part of national CSOs especially national platforms or associations, as well as lack of effective mechanisms for systematic communication, consultation and coordination between international CSOs and national platforms.
6. To our knowledge, despite some efforts by international networks such as CIVICUS Affinity Groups of National Associations (AGNA), International Forum of National NGO Platforms (IFP) and others, a majority of national platforms in Asia are not yet fully engaged effectively in advocacy on international development discourse and policy formulation of international organizations such as UN, WB, ADB, OECD, etc. Democratic ownership and inclusive partnerships between national platforms and international CSOs networks remains a key challenge as many development issues are multi-dimensional and interdependent.
7. It is believed that national platforms in Asia can and should play a more proactive role at the regional and global levels as they have relatively richer resources and expertise which is in nature, multi-sectoral and thematic within the country. As an interface between international and national/local processes, national platforms are expected to contribute to closing a gap in cooperation with like-minded international CSOs/networks which are in nature sectoral and thematic. We believe that a synergy effect will be generated if and when three – national platforms, national umbrella and international CSOs/networks – are able to work together in strategic partnerships in action.

CONCEPT NOTE

8. ADA currently covers three sub-regions, namely South Asia, Southeast Asia and Northeast Asia.

Main agenda

9. Main agenda of the ADA 2013 are three-fold – Sharing, Analysis and Strategizing;
 - Sharing : sharing of experiences among national platforms about their activities regarding 'multiple post processes' and their advocacy work on enabling environment (political space, defending civil society, etc.)
 - Analysis : reflection on key international and regional issues, trends and challenges facing national platforms with focus on the international processes and meetings such as UN High-level Panel on Post 2015 Development Agenda and UN GA High-level Plenary (Sept. 2013), Global Partnership for Effective Development Cooperation (GPEDC), Rio+20 follow-ups including Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), G20 Development Agenda, World Bank / Asian Development Bank (ADB), etc.
 - Strategizing : Making joint action plans based on common event calendar and designing sustainable facilitation and coordination mechanism.

Organizers, Sponsors and Coordination

10. The regional meeting of ADA 2013 is being initiated by 4 national platforms as co-conveners – Voluntary Action Network in India (VANI) for South Asia, Cooperation Committee for Cambodia (CCC) and Code-NGO (Philippines) for Southeast Asia and Korea NGO Council for Overseas Development Cooperation (KCOC) for Northeast Asia in partnership with GCAP-Asia.
11. UN Millennium Campaign (UNMC) based in Bangkok and Asian Forum for Human Rights and Development (FORUM-ASIA), Bangkok-based regional human rights CSO network are to host the ADA locally.
12. Two international networks of national platforms and associations, namely CIVICUS Affinity Groups of National Associations (AGNA), International Forum of National NGO Platforms (IFP) and Good Neighbours International (GNI) are to join the ADA as co-sponsors with their financial support.

CONVENERS

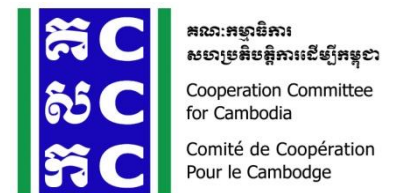

VANI (Voluntary Action Network India) was formed in the year 1988 with an objective to promote volunteerism and voluntary sector in India. Since then, using advocacy as its principle instrument to catalyze this change, VANI has taken up a series of advocacy initiatives at global, national, and state level. VANI has consistently raised its voice against those policies and practices that tend to degenerate the development sector in India. Being an apex body of voluntary organizations, VANI works as a catalyst between the Indian voluntary sector and other actors like central and state governments, bilateral and multilaterals. Besides the advocacy efforts, VANI actively engages in the process of reaching out to the media and the public to sensitize them on concerns related to the sector. The efforts of VANI to promote the principles of accountability, transparency, and good governance in public, private and the voluntary sector have been recognized not only at the national level, but also at the international arena. Consequently, almost all stakeholders have recognized the perspectives that VANI takes on various critical issues of development. Currently, VANI is represented by direct membership of 465 organizations and an indirect membership of over 5000 organizations.

GCAP (Global Call to Action against Poverty) is a growing alliance that brings together trade unions, INGOs, the women's and youth movements, community and faith groups and others to call for action from world leaders in the global North and South to meet their promises to end poverty and inequality. GCAP's main aim is to achieve policy and practice changes that will improve the lives of people living in poverty. GCAP adds to existing campaigning on poverty by forming diverse, inclusive national platforms that are able to open up civil society space and advocate more effectively than individual organizations would be able to do on their own. It also organizes global mass mobilizations that express solidarity between the global North and South, allow tens of millions of ordinary people to make their voices heard and bring pressure to bear on world leaders.

SUPPORTERS

IFP (International Forum of National NGO Platforms) brings together over 50 national NGO platforms from Africa, Latin America, Asia, Europe and Oceania and seven regional coalitions, which together account for more than 10,000 organizations. It was founded at an international conference in Paris in 2008, with the conviction of broadening the space to participate in global debates to defend our vision of a supportive world where human rights are respected, the most vulnerable populations have a voice and inequalities and injustice are fought. This prompted the decision by the national platforms from the five continents to start a cooperative work and joint advocacy.

SUPPORTERS

AGNA (Affinity Group of National Associations) brings together national associations from around the world. National associations are those organizations which provide and give a collective voice to civil society in their countries, serve as interlocutors between civil society and other sectors and struggle for the creation of an enabling environment for civil society at the national level. AGNA launched at the 2004 CIVICUS World Assembly, the aim of AGNA is to engage these national associations to foster greater co-operation across national and regional boundaries and to increase their ability to pursue mutual interests. This aim is based on the following identified needs:

- The need for an international citizens' coalition;
- The need to reverse the current understanding of capacity building characterised by a North to South flow of knowledge, information and experience sharing;
- The need to provide a support network for national network leaders; and
- The need to reduce the 're-invention of the wheel' and improvisation in the leadership of NGOs/NPOs.

was established by the UN Secretary General Kofi Annan in 2002 in order to support citizen participation in the achieving the Millennium Development Goals, adopted by 189 world leaders from rich and poor countries, as part of the Millennium Declaration which was signed in 2000. Since 2002 we have worked with UN partners and key global constituencies, such as civil society, parliamentarians, faith groups and youth to inspire people from around the world to take action for the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals by 2015.

Now the Campaign advocates for increased efforts to effectively promote greater support for the MDGs, as it is more critical than ever that they remain a priority in the political and public agenda. We work underlining their impact and that they continue to be a sound and worthwhile investment for all in the fight against global poverty.
